The Oxford Handbook Of Screendance Studies (Oxford Handbooks)

Synopsis

The Oxford Handbook of Screendance Studies offers a full overview of the histories, practices, and critical and theoretical foundations of the rapidly changing landscape of screendance. Drawing on their practices, technologies, theories, and philosophies, scholars from the fields of dance, performance, visual art, cinema and media arts articulate the practice of screendance as an interdisciplinary, hybrid form that has yet to be correctly sited as an academic field worthy of critical investigation. Each chapter discusses and reframes current issues, as a means of promoting and enriching dialogue within the wider community of dance and the moving image. Topics addressed embrace politics of the body; agency, race, and gender in screendance; the relationship of choreography to image; constructs of space and time; representation and effacement; production and curatorial practice; and other areas of intersecting disciplines. The Oxford Handbook of Screendance Studies features newly-commissioned and original scholarship that will be essential reading for all those interested in the intersection of dance and the moving image, including film and video-makers, dance artists, screendance artists, academics and writers, producers, composers, as well as the wider interested public. It will become an invaluable resource for researchers and professionals in the field.

"[A] proficient collection..."--The Dance Current"A collection of theoretical writings, The Oxford

Handbook of Screendance Studies acts as a curator, contextualizing the discourse brewing at the nexus of cinema, media, dance, and performance. The essays Rosenberg (art, Univ. of Wisconsin, Madison; editor, the International Journal of Screendance) brings together offer diverse analytical perspectives on historical, anthropological, and political landscapes. Arranged in sections devoted to history, theory, and practice, the 36 essays illuminate technologically oriented movement research, using the body as center."--Choice
