Barbarian Alien: A SciFi Alien Romance (Ice Planet Barbarians Book 2)

Synopsis

Twelve humans are left stranded on a wintry alien planet. I'm one of them. Yay, me. In order to survive, we have to take on a symbiont that wants to rewire our bodies to live in this brutal place. I like to call it a cootie. And my cootie's a jerk, because it also thinks I'm the mate to the biggest, surliest alien of the group.--BARBARIAN ALIEN is a sequel to ICE PLANET BARBARIANS. You do not have to read both in order to understand the plot, but the story will be richer if you do!

Barbarian Alien is book two in the Ice Planet Barbarians by Ruby Dixon. Here we have Liz and Raahosh story. The world and characters Ms. Dixon has created are fascinating. Each character is unique and you can connect to them. I like the dual-POV. They help give us both Liz and Raahosh perspective. We have a couple here who need to work on their communication. Raahosh is not a talker and Liz, well she talks too much. Raahosh has some deep wounds in his soul that need healing. Having a mate gives him that chance to finally heal and have a family, but it doesn't come easily. Liz puts up a fight. The one thing I really didn't like was Liz's treatment of Raahosh. I dislike a heroine who will smack a hero. I get that she is frustrated with her situation and that many if not all of her choices have been taken away from her, but to treat Raahosh the way she does with her actions and words, was disappointing. It made me dislike Liz. Finally around the 35% range Liz has a revelation and gets her ass in gear. She apologizes and gives him a chance and starts to learn about the world. Once they progress, I finally fell into the story. They have a few challenges to get through with the tribe; before they can be together. It's sad, sweet, and sexy. I'm very much enjoying this Sci-Fi Romance series. Even though Barbarian Alien was not at the top of my list in this series. I still enjoyed it enough to go out and buy the next book. All the characters have enthralled me. Rated: 3.5 Stars

This story is from the point of view of Liz and Rahoosh. Liz is a loud mouthed, sarcastic, swearing survivor from the crashed space ship and Rahoosh is a hunter and somewhat outcast from his clan. The story takes off when the women are saved from the ship by the Not Hoth clan and Georgie. The women are not doing well because of the conditions and the environment which is not compatible with humans. They will need a khui which is a worm like thing or host that lives in their body to filter the harmful environment. Needless to say, the women were not feeling totally on board to take on this khui. Rahoosh's khui is speaking to him that Liz is his mate and decides to take off with her on his own which is a big no no. Liz is having no part of this and fights Rahoosh the whole way. However, she is forced to take the khui which she humorously calls a cootie. Once Liz's cootie is in her body it becomes apparent that her cootie is speaking to Rahoosh's cootie meaning that she is attached to him and she is fit to be tied. Liz is not a sweet and demure person but more of a dirty mind and mouthed one. She may not be as appealing as Georgie from the first book for some but I like her even more. I felt I understood and related to her because of the great writing of her character. She was constantly whining and vexing about her situation thinking Rahoosh didn't understand her but in fact he did. As in the first book, the humor was what was the most appealing part. I was laughing throughout at the things Liz would say. She would often blame her cootie for her actions and that she even called it a cootie was hilarious. The chemistry was steamy but the romance developed overtime. Their relationship was believable and I was rooting for them. The characters especially Liz and Rahoosh were written about in the first person to bring their readers along with their thoughts and desires. The writing was crisp, smart and fun to read with never a dull moment. I loved it!

While I TOTALLY get where Liz was coming from with her desire to be seen as more than just a baby-making machine and to be asked what she wanted, I also completely felt for Raahosh and his not-very-social self. He has no clue how to treat a woman (especially one like Liz) and he doesn't quite know how to handle her independence. Actually, he likes her independence and her willingness to stand up to him. He's just not very good about expressing himself. The language barrier doesn't help either. When Liz uses slang he has to try to figure out what she's getting at. Sometimes with hilarious results. These barbarians have a lot to learn about human women and watching the fallout tickles my funny bone. Between the urge to mate with their chosen lady and the sass these women can dish out, there's plenty of misunderstandings--and sexy times--to come. I'm kinda excited about that!

Stranded on an ice planet from you no where, I choose to survive even though I am battered, bruised and just want to go home! I'm Liv and I'm one of twelve women kidnapped from Earth in Barbarian Alien: Ice Planet Barbarians book 2 by Ruby Dixon. Liv is an outspoken, arrogant yet down to Earth-kind-of-girl-you-love. When it's time for her to accept the symbiont, her "cootie," she freezes. She doesn't want that in her body! But, her mate decides for her and forces her acceptance. What happens next is their journey to happiness and love the hard way. Raahosh wants a mate, and when he resonates to Liv his world changes. He just has to convince her. The pathway to her acceptance is full of turbulence and strife. Liv wants to make the decision based on love not because her cootie chooses a mate! Once again, Ruby Dixon has done a wonderful job engulfing us in her ice world full of the unexpected. More characters come into play and the unknown aliens that abandon the women could come back anytime. It keeps you intrigued and involved in the plot. Exceptionally written and perfect addition to my science fiction romance library!
