David Choe was born in 1976, raised in Los Angeles and is of Korean descent. He is one of the most diverse and prolific artists working today. Choe's art, photos, and writing have been featured in Giant Robot, and Vice Magazine among numerous other publications. His extensive client list includes Marvel Comics, Levi's, IBM, and Nike. Choe's three self-published, comic/journal/novellas: Bruised Fruit, Cursiv AND Slow Jams have received awards and are sold out editions. David Choe's works have been exhibited in galleries internationally. He is also one of the youngest artists ever to have a solo show at MOCA. A trailer of the new documentary 'Dirty Hands: The Art and Life of David Choe', is available on view at www.dirtyhandsmovie.com.

I came across this postcard book set by pure chance. I am SO glad I did. I love the new age of modern/graphic/street art. Anything and everything. I love the combining of different medias and platforms. That being said, it's easy to understand why I would love these pieces of postcard art so much. If the abstract and unconventional is not your thing, then you may not feel the same way. Each and every card was breathtaking in its own way - I've never known of David Choe before, but now I do and am more enriched for it. I feel these will make some of my select Postcrossing recipients super happy and a lot of my close friends will be displaying these as well. I've added some pics (not all) so you have an idea of what you're getting into if you've never Heard of DC before. I love them. True, there is a giant ink splash across the back that makes for limited message space, but the beauty of these has me forgiving that small detail. Highly recommend.ps - larger than a standard postcard, regular postage required. Included pic of back of card. Came out of booklet easily and cleanly. A couple have nudity, but nothing in poor taste.

I send as post cards to my friends.

Had never seen his work until I came across this postcard set. The 30 cards come bound in a book that is encased in a tab closed cover, which is nice to keep them all together. Most of the images are great, rich colors, interesting subject matters and his use of varying media (paints, photos, blood, ink, pencil) makes for some striking prints. Some of them just don't seem to fit with the others, I will send out all but 5 or 6 that I personally don't care for. The worst part of the collection is the front of the cards, more than half of the card is taken up by the "address to" area.

WOW!!!! If you like different....you will love these! I am a "Postcard Freak"!!!! Send these to your friends-they will love these!

get a bunch of killer choe art!!!

These postcards are hard to explain. I would call them twisted and beautiful. Love this beautiful set.

I almost hate to send these because they're so gorgeous I want to keep all of them. The image and paper quality is superb. I would love to order another book of his if he ever released one. This is excellent art and will make any recipient thrilled to find in his/her mailbox.

My BFF liked this gift a lot. David Choe is just a rad person and his art is great. Cool postcards!
