Customer Reviews

"Don't be misled by the breezy style or stylish fonts - this is a serious how-to manual for serious students....this accessible guide is rock solid." - Booklist

Dan Holton began playing guitar at 15, after falling in love with the blues and hasn't been without a guitar for more than a day or two ever since! He has a degree in music and studied under eminent musicians Guthrie Govan and Ace. He has toured and played in a band and has now settled down to teaching fulltime through his own business the Brighton Guitar Academy. The Academy has over 1500 students on it's books, and when not teaching, Dan also produces music videos as well as writing freelance for guitar companies such as Riffstation, Blues Guitar Master and many others.

A simple book that can explain the very beginner of any age on how to start to play the guitar. I was well satisfied with the book. I would recommend it do any of 's customers. Especially young customers that are just now getting their feet wet into music I'm playing the guitar. Thank you once again for providing such a great product

Not my favorite instructional book. It takes too long to start playing actual songs-- and the online support isn't great either. I'd look elsewhere-- and, in fact, did.

Awesome book with easy to understand lessons and a super simple layout. Couldn't recommend this book highly enough!

Learning to play instruments is a great way for kids to explore their creativity and learn to enjoy music on a deeper level. Love how it really breaks it down into simple and easily achieved steps.
