

The book was found

Philosophy Through Film

Synopsis

Many of the classic questions of philosophy have been raised, illuminated, and addressed in celluloid. In this Third Edition of Philosophy through Film, Mary M. Litch teams up with a new co-author, Amy Karofsky, to show readers how to watch films with a sharp eye for their philosophical content. Together, the authors help students become familiar with key topics in all of the major areas in Western philosophy and master the techniques of philosophical argumentation. The perfect size and scope for a first course in philosophy, the book assumes no prior knowledge of philosophy. It is an excellent teaching resource and learning tool, introducing students to key topics and figures in philosophy through thematic chapters, each of which is linked to one or more "focus films" that illustrate a philosophical problem or topic. Revised and expanded, the Third Edition features:

- A completely revised chapter on "Relativism," now re-titled "Truth" with coverage of the correspondence theory, the pragmatist theory, and the coherence theory.
- The addition of four new focus films: Inception, Moon, Gone Baby Gone, God on Trial.
- Revisions to the General Introduction that include a discussion of critical reasoning.
- Revisions to the primary readings to better meet the needs of instructors and students, including the addition of three new primary readings: excerpts from Bertrand Russell's The Problems of Philosophy, from William James's Pragmatism: A New Way for Some Old Ways of Thinking, and from J. L. Mackie's "Evil and Omnipotence".
- Updates and expansion to the companion website, including a much expanded list of films relevant to the various subfields of philosophy.

Films examined in depth include: Hilary and Jackie, The Matrix, Inception, Memento, Moon, I, Robot, Minority Report, Crimes and Misdemeanors, Gone Baby Gone, Antz, Equilibrium, The Seventh Seal, God on Trial, Leaving Las Vegas.

Book Information

Paperback: 402 pages

Publisher: Routledge; 3 edition (July 13, 2014)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 0415839327

ISBN-13: 978-0415839327

Product Dimensions: 6 x 0.9 x 9 inches

Shipping Weight: 1.4 pounds (View shipping rates and policies)

Average Customer Review: 4.3 out of 5 stars 13 customer reviews

Best Sellers Rank: #144,467 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #158 in Books > Humor &

Entertainment > Movies > Theory #303 in Books > Textbooks > Humanities > Performing Arts > Film & Television #373 in Books > Politics & Social Sciences > Philosophy > History & Surveys

Customer Reviews

"This Third Edition of Philosophy Through Film is a valuable book for introducing students to the wonder of philosophical exploration and the power of philosophical reasoning to force us to reevaluate our reflexive responses to fundamental questions, such as the nature of truth or the self. Litch and Karofsky have added more recently released films familiar to undergraduates, such as Inception and Gone Baby Gone, and refocused chapters to better clarify the variety of philosophical positions taken on enduring philosophical questions. What I find valuable about Philosophy Through Film is that it argues that films can make philosophical arguments by drawing us wholly into fictional worlds that enable us to entertain new ideas about truth, reality, or free will in ways that mere argument sometimes cannot."

— Jennifer Hansen, St. Lawrence University

"With clarity that doesn't compromise rigor, Mary Litch and Amy Karofsky introduce readers new to philosophy to some of its most enduring concerns and seminal questions, including skepticism, personal identity, artificial intelligence, and political philosophy. Coupling penetrating analyses in thematic chapters with excerpts from classical works by Plato, Descartes, Hume, Kant, Mill, Sartre, and others in the philosophical canon, Philosophy through Film connects central philosophical questions to focus films from popular culture that students will recognize and understand. In so doing the book reveals the presence of philosophical issues in the context of everyday life, enabling instructors to capture a wider audience than one might otherwise hope to reach in an introductory philosophy course."

— Mark Uffelman, Millersville University

"Building upon the strengths of previous editions while expanding its coverage of topics and bringing new films into focus, Philosophy Through Film offers a readable and engaging introduction to a wide range of philosophical questions: about what is real, what we can know, how we should act, and what it all means. Popular films such as Inception and The Matrix provide a rich repository of situations and examples, that not only help to bring these questions to life but offer surprising insights into their solutions. Highly recommended for the introductory philosophy classroom, as well as for anyone who likes movies that make you think."

— Nathan Andersen, Collegium of Letters, Saint Petersburg, FL

"This book is fabulous! Since its first edition, Philosophy Through Film has served as an outstanding text for both topical introduction to philosophy courses and philosophy and film courses. The writing is very clear, organized, well-researched, and, most importantly, thought provoking. It tackles core philosophical issues in a serious way, yet at the same time remains accessible and exciting to even beginning philosophy students. A unique feature of this book is that it confines itself to a manageable set of films, which can easily be viewed within the timeframe of a single semester. This third edition builds on all the strengths of the previous ones, while including just the right amount of new material to keep it current." —James Fieser, University of Tennessee at Martin

Mary M. Litch has taught Philosophy at Yale University, the University of Alabama at Birmingham, and the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. She is currently Director of Academic Technology and Digital Media at Chapman University, where she also teaches Philosophy. Amy Karofsky teaches Philosophy at Hofstra University.

I don't know much about philosophy but I could tell that Mary Litch, who wrote this book, knew exactly what she was talking about. Great summary analysis of various movies and concerts, good for intro students like me. However, if you are looking for a very in depth analysis of certain concepts, you may not find them here.

Good Read.

I bought this book for my philosophy class at college. I had neither interest nor knowledge about philosophy prior to this class. But the book made it easy for me to enter philosophical world, it was not that boring as I thought. Overall a good book for beginner of philosophy, very thoroughly explained and informative.

An interesting way to study philosophy and definitely easier to understand. I regret giving this book away even though the class that I used it for ended.

School text requirement

Great movie choices for Philosophy lessons.

I absolutely recommend this book. Those who seek books to expand your perception in life, this book is a must.

The book is a great read, and really simplifies your understanding of philosophy by drawing the correlation between pop culture and different discussion points of philosophy. Review of the seller: the book arrived in great condition , it was new as advertised. Very pleased.

Download to continue reading...

Manifesto for Philosophy: Followed by Two Essays: "the (Re)Turn of Philosophy Itself" and "Definition of Philosophy" (Suny Series, Intersections, Philosophy and Critical Theory) Introducing Philosophy Through Film: Key Texts, Discussion, and Film Selections The Film Encyclopedia 7th Edition: The Complete Guide to Film and the Film Industry Cinema, Philosophy, Bergman: On Film as Philosophy Philosophy through Film Queer Images: A History of Gay and Lesbian Film in America (Genre and Beyond: A Film Studies Series) Film Is Not Dead: A Digital Photographer's Guide to Shooting Film (Voices That Matter) Essays on the Essay Film (Film and Culture Series) The Complete Filmmaker's Guide to Film Festivals: Your All Access Pass to launching your film on the festival circuit Film Studies: An Introduction (Film and Culture Series) The Complete Film Production Handbook (American Film Market Presents) Film Directing Fundamentals: See Your Film Before Shooting Documenting the Documentary: Close Readings of Documentary Film and Video, New and Expanded Edition (Contemporary Approaches to Film and Media Series) Documentary Film Classics (Cambridge Studies in Film) Film on the Left: American Documentary Film from 1931 to 1942 Film, a Sound Art (Film and Culture Series) The Horror Film: An Introduction (New Approaches to Film Genre) The Producer's Business Handbook: The Roadmap for the Balanced Film Producer (American Film Market Presents) Latino Images in Film: Stereotypes, Subversion, and Resistance (Texas Film and Media Studies Series) On Film Editing: An Introduction to the Art of Film Construction

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help