Well, what can I say about Sports Illustrated swimsuit edition products, that is not evident for everyone to see. It is possibly one of mankind's greatest inventions. I have been collecting these calendars since 1992 and have never missed an issue. Cynics will say that sex is all there is to it, but I truly see art in these photographs. Sensuality, beauty, color and fabulous settings. True, swimsuits are the least important but it doesn't matter because they are so small that really nobody cares about them. SI Swimsuit edition has been a tradition for me all this time and this calendar will not disappoint any fan. I hope that my rambling was fun to read.

I am the Aunt to a 38 year old nephew to whom I have been gifting the SI Swimsuit Calendar as a Christmas gift for over 20 years. I am not particularly a fan of the calendar, but he is.

Stunning, scantily-clad women. Accurate dates. Hangs on the wall straight. What more could you want ?

I've been buying this calendar for our shop for decades. The models are beautiful and the photography is done in a sexy but tasteful manner, suitable for a business work area. This Deluxe Edition features a poster which we love to staple to the shop wall. We had quite a collection until a major fire swept through our building a year ago. The posters were not burned, but were water damaged. The demo crew pulled them down and took them home :) Our building is rebuilt and we're starting our collection over now.

A good calendar with good page attachment so the weight of it won't cause it to tear at the top or come apart when you turn the page.

Nice wall calendar. Pages are 15" by 15" in size with photos of women taking 13"x15" It also includes a nice poster of Hanna Ferguson (see picture attached) 15" by 25" in size.

I buy my husband a "bikini girl" calendar every year for Christmas. This year was a hit. There was even a poster/pin-up girl included! It's a big calendar. The pictures are big if he wants to look at the ladies, and the calendar-part is big if I want to look at the date.-and it was an excellent price win-win-win!
